

Objectives 3

This objective will be reached through an integrated research design that will guide the work of the consortium from the very beginning. Such a design aims to specify empirical interfaces between the three methods mentioned above, particularly by building interrelated questionnaires for the different kinds of data. Finally, our work will enable us to theoretically and empirically validate a consistent multidimensional framework of analysis, to be presented at the end of the research.