

Sciences Politiques

In particular, the Center for Political Research at Sciences Po (CEVIPOF), a joint research unit Sciences Po-CNRS (JRU 7048), is a leading European research center in social science. CEVIPOF's purpose is to study political behavior, forces and institutions as well as new trends and issues shaping political life. The Center brings together more than 40 senior scholars active in research as well as teaching, with various backgrounds in social and human sciences. CEVIPOF has also stood out as the leading institution in France for the treatment and analysis of ESS data, which have also shed light on political attitudes and participation of the French unemployed.
